THE PROBLEM

Spotify serves 600 million listeners. Nobody serves the 2 million who CREATE the music.

No DnB-Specific Tools

Suno AI, LANDR, iZotope — none optimised for Drum & Bass, neurofunk, or jungle sub-genres.

Algorithmic Homogenisation

Major platforms push mainstream releases. Underground DnB producers are invisible to discovery algorithms.

No Creator Toolchain

Producers use 6+ disconnected tools: BPM detection, key finding, mastering, cover art, lyrics — none integrated.

Community Fragmentation

DnB creators are scattered across Discord, SoundCloud, Reddit, Facebook Groups — no unified creative home.

WHY SPOTIFY — AND WHY NOW

BassFlow is not competing with Spotify.
BassFlow is Spotify's missing creator layer.

Creator Funnel

BassFlow creators produce music that ends up on Spotify. Deeper integration means more professional, higher-quality indie DnB releases reaching Spotify audiences.

Data Partnership

BassFlow's AI tools generate rich metadata — BPM, key, stem analysis, genre tags — that enriches Spotify's catalogue data for DnB releases.

Spotify for Artists

BassFlow creators are exactly the demographic Spotify for Artists targets — independent producers who need tools, community, and distribution.

LGBT+ Audience

BassFlow's 'Music Should Unite' initiative directly aligns with Spotify's Pride programming and global diversity commitments.

Market Expansion

BassFlow opens DnB's 2-3M creator segment as a new acquisition channel for Spotify Premium — creators who don't currently have Spotify integrations.

Spotify Ventures

BassFlow represents a pre-revenue, high-growth music-tech asset at the intersection of AI tools and community — a natural strategic investment target.

Drum and Bass was born underground.
With the right partnership,
it can go global.

BassFlow Creator Hub offers Spotify a unique opportunity: to be the platform that finally recognises music creators — not just listeners — and builds the infrastructure that the next generation of producers, DJs, and AI artists actually needs.
